

Writing Articles / Posts

- every Blog contains Articles or Posts - this are different names for the same thing
- to write an article, go to you Dashboard
- go to "New" -> "Post" as you can see below

- as you can notice, creating an article is very similar to creating / changing a page

Exercises 1

- Create a new Blog post that looks like the following picture
- Use your own pictures to make a gallery

Sample Page

Welcome to my Blog!

Here I write about the topics i like the most. My topics are:

- make a list ...
- ... of the topics ...
- ... that you write about!

Here are some of my photos I want to show you:

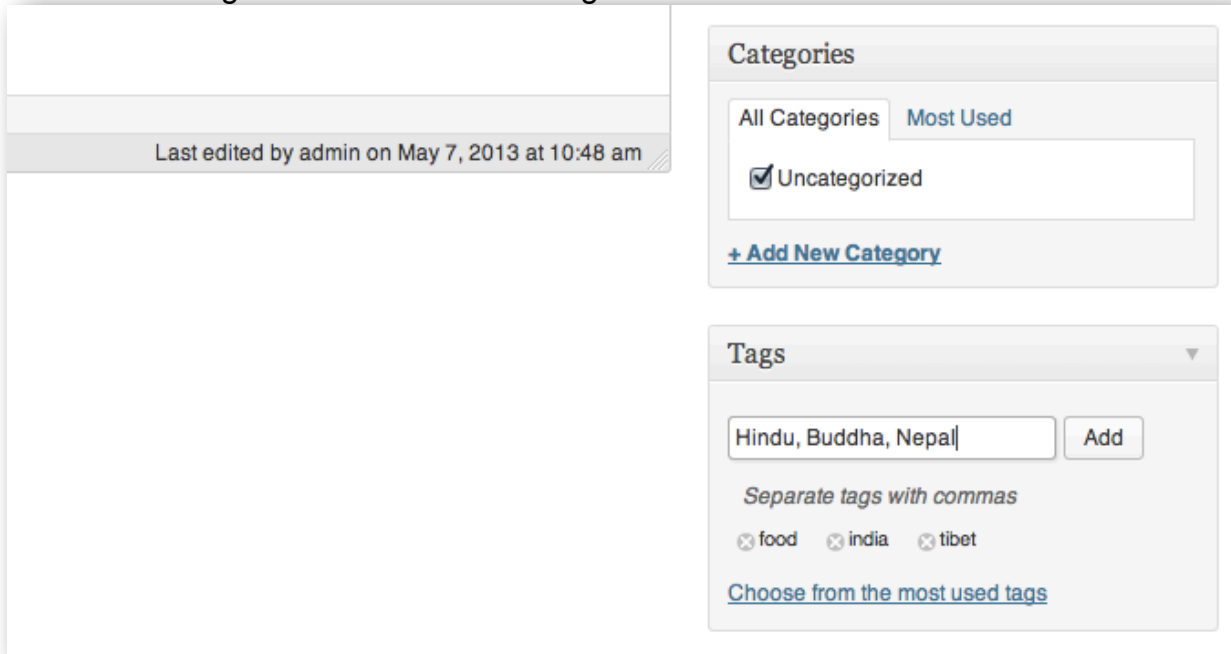

Exercises 2

- Write 5 post, with each containing one of your monthly essays.

Tags

You can add different tags to different articles. Different articles can have the same tags. Tags are good for search engines and for the readers. The reader of you blog can click on a tag, and will see all articles that have this tag.

You can add tag to an article while editing the article.

The screenshot shows the right-hand side of the WordPress article editor. On the left, a box indicates the article was 'Last edited by admin on May 7, 2013 at 10:48 am'. The main area on the right contains two metaboxes. The 'Categories' metabox has two tabs: 'All Categories' and 'Most Used'. Under 'Most Used', the 'Uncategorized' category is selected with a checkmark. Below this is a link to '+ Add New Category'. The 'Tags' metabox features a text input field containing 'Hindu, Buddha, Nepal' and an 'Add' button. Below the input field, it says 'Separate tags with commas'. There is a list of existing tags: 'food', 'india', and 'tibet', each with a small 'x' icon to its left. At the bottom of the tags section is a link that says 'Choose from the most used tags'.

Exercises 3

- Edit you posts and add different tags to each post. Make sure, that some posts have the same tag
